INTRODUCTION.

The Kansas Live Stock Registry Board in issuing this, its Second Annual Report, has included in this report only stallions licensed from October 1, 1910, to October 1, 1911. The First Annual Report which was issued last year contains a list of all stallions licensed to October 1, 1910, and anyone wishing a copy of that report may secure the same free, postpaid, by addressing the Live Stock Registry Board, Manhattan, Kan.

The law under which the Board is working was passed by the Kansas legislature in 1909.

The attention of the Kansas stallion owners is especially directed to the following statements and provisions of this law:

1. No stallion can legally stand for public service in Kansas without a State license issued by the Live Stock Registry Board, and all advertisements of every kind or nature must contain a correct copy of this license (word for word) as provided by law. Section 4 reads as follows: "Every bill, poster or advertisement issued by the owner of any stallion enrolled under this act, or used by him for advertising such stallion, shall contain a correct copy of its certificate of enrolment." The term "certificate of enrolment" means the license issued by the Registry Board.

2. To procure a State license the owner must have the stallion examined for soundness by an authorized veterinarian. If any owner does not know who the authorized veterinarian for his district is, he should write to the secretary of the Live Stock Registry Board, Manhattan, Kan., for the information. After the stallion has been examined for soundness, the owner must send to the Registry Board all pedigrees and other papers bearing upon the breeding of the stallion in question, or a certified copy of the same, together with a fee of $2.00 for issuing the State license, as provided by law.

3. Section 6 reads as follows: "The owner of any stallion standing for public service in this State shall post and keep affixed, during the entire breeding season, copies of the license certificate of each stallion, issued under the provision of this act, in a conspicuous place upon the main door leading into every stable or building where the said stallion stands for public service."

It is very important that this section be strictly adhered to that the mare owner may know what kind of a horse he is patronizing, both as to breeding and condition of soundness,

4. Section 8 reads as follows: "Upon the transfer of the ownership of any stallion enrolled under the provisions of this act, the certificate of enrolment may be transferred by the Live Stock Registry Board upon submittal of satisfactory proof of such transfer and upon the payment of a fee of fifty cents."

Parties buying stallions that stood for public service in Kansas last year should have such transfer of ownership recorded in the books of the Registry Board as required by law.

When such transfer of ownership is made the new owner should send to the Registry Board the old State license, and a new one will be issued in the name of the new owner.

5. Section 10 reads as follows: "Any stallion standing for public service that is not a pure-bred and registered horse must have conspicuously posted on the door of the stall in which he is kept; and in black type not less than one inch in height, a statement that such stallion is a grade or a cross-bred, as the case may be."

Owners of grade stallions should bear this in mind and act accordingly.

6. Stallions that have once been examined and licensed do not have to be re-examined and re-licensed again this year.

The spirit of the law is that every owner shall advertise his stallion for exactly what it is. Stallion owners have had time to familiarize themselves with the provisions of this law and are expected to comply with the same.

BENEFITS OF THE KANSAS STALLION LAW.

Everyone interested in horse breeding should be familiar with the spirit, purpose and benefits of the Kansas stallion law.

What is the purpose of the law?

The purpose of this law is that every owner who stands a stallion for public service shall represent and advertise his stallion for exactly what he is, both as regards breeding and condition of soundness. Is not this a very valuable, fair and just provision which furnishes and guarantees to the patron the actual facts concerning the stallions he may wish to patronize?

Who is benefited by the provisions of this law, and is it accomplishing the purpose for which it was passed?

The stallion owner, the mare owner, and the horse breeding interests in general are all benefited by it. Before the passage of this law, Kansas was a dumping ground for unsound stallions which were being barred from public service in other states and also for a host of stallions with fraudulent and worthless pedigrees.

The stallion law provides that every stallion standing for public service must be licensed by the State Live Stock Registry Board, and before a license is issued the pedigree or other papers relating to the breeding of such stallion, or a certified copy of these papers, must be sent to the Live Stock Registry Board for inspection. The reason for requiring owners to send these papers to the office of the Registry Board is to determine whether or not the stallion in question is recorded in a reputable and recognized registry association, and in case the stallion is registered in such an association, to ascertain whether or not the registry certificate (pedigree) has been changed, and to see that it corresponds with the records of the stud books in which the stallion in question is claimed to be recorded.

There are a number of fake registry associations which are registering almost any kind of a stallion, paying little or no attention to its breeding. One of these associations is very particular that each applicant "be sure to mention the breed the horse most resembles." The men who are issuing these worthless pedigrees are in the business only for the money there is in it and are grafters of the worst class. These men issue large, imposing, so-called registry certificates profusely decorated with pictures, mottoes, seals, etc., but if one will read carefully one of these fake pedigrees he will discover that about all that has been certified is that the animal in question is a horse and not some other kind of an animal. These pedigrees are not worth the paper they are written upon. In some cases the breeding is entirely unknown, in others the animals recorded are simply grades having but one or two top crosses — horses that may be fairly good looking individuals when loaded with fat, but which can never be a success as sires because they lack that intensified inheritance of characters which enables the pure-bred to stamp his characters upon his offspring.

Before the passage of this law, the average Kansas stallion purchaser had no means of protecting himself against unscrupulous dealers who were flooding the State with stallions with fake pedigrees. Hundreds of horses having these worthless pedigrees have been sold to Kansas men for long prices, one company paying $4200 for a stallion whose pedigree has since proved to be an absolute forgery from beginning to end.

Many pedigrees have been sent to this office that were recorded in reputable and recognized associations, but, upon comparing the same with the records of the stud books in which their pedigrees were recorded, it was found that the registry certificate had been tampered with — either the date of foaling or color, and in some instances both, had been changed. It usually developed that the stallion for which these registry certificates were originally issued had died and other stallions, usually grades, had been substituted in their places, necessitating a change of description and age in the pedigree to agree with the age and description of the horse substituted.

Both the man who bought such a stallion and the mare owner who patronized it were done a great injustice and a positive injury. The purchaser usually paid the price of a pure-bred, properly registered animal and was generally sincere in advertising his stallion as such, and the men who patronized this horse thought they were breeding to a pure-bred animal, so both were grossly deceived.

Under the present law the man who wishes to purchase a stallion has a means of protecting himself. He may purchase his stallion subject to inspection and approval by the Live Stock Registry Board as regards both soundness and breeding. Many Kansas men who are purchasing stallions these days are taking advantage of this opportunity to protect themselves in making purchases, and most of the Kansas stallion breeders are voluntarily furnishing inspection reports and licenses when offering stallions for sale.

The mare owner who patronized stallions having fraudulent pedigrees paid the service fee of a pure-bred horse and expected to grade up and improve his horses, but in practically every case he was disappointed with the results of his efforts, getting only a common, ordinary lot of colts. These experiences are practical and forcible illustrations of the fact that no marked improvement can result in the general average of our horses except by the use of good, sound, pure-bred sires.

The mare owners of Kansas are receiving a benefit of inestimable value from the provisions of the stallion law in their work of grading up the average of the horses of the State. The great majority of our horses are raised by busy farmers, each owning but a few mares. They realize and appreciate the importance of soundness in breeding animals, but they do not pretend to be experts in detecting unsoundnesses; neither do they claim to be pedigree experts, and had they the time and the inclination to investigate the authenticity of the pedigrees of the stallions standing for public service in their communities, they do not have the facilities for such work, since it would require complete sets of the stud-books of the various recognized and reputable registry associations as well as a thorough understanding of the herd book methods of both American and foreign associations and an endless amount of time and work in doubtful cases. The mare owner, realizing that he needed assistance and protection in these matters, appealed to the Kansas legislature for aid. The legislature, recognizing the necessity and importance of State inspection of the stallions standing for public service, responded by passing the Kansas stallion law, the provisions of which make it possible for the mare owner to know exactly the condition of soundness and the breeding of any and every stallion standing for public service in his community.

Previous to the passage of this law hundreds of grade and mongrel stallions were represented and advertised as pure-bred and registered stallions. These advertisements, reinforced by the persuasive and convincing arguments of unscrupulous owners and smooth-tongued grooms, have done a great injury to the horse breeding interests of our State. Since the stallion law has gone into effect these stallions now have to stand under their true colors. One instance will be mentioned to show how this works out in actual practice. The writer, having occasion to stop at a certain town, stepped into a breeding barn. There it was found that a horse was advertised as a registered standard-bred stallion. The patrons of this horse accepted the statements of the owner in good faith and thought they were really breeding to a standard-bred horse. When the owner was compelled to comply with the stallion law, he admitted that the so-called registered standard-bred stallion was out of a range mare and that the sire was unknown. This stallion is now known and advertised under his true colors.

The stallion law provides a means of furnishing the mare owner verified information concerning the soundness and breeding of each stallion of his community. Just how may the mare owner obtain this information? The law requires that a copy of the State license which contains this information shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place upon the door of the stall where such stallion is kept. In the case of grade stallions the words "grade stallion" in letters not less than one inch in height must be posted upon the door where such grade stallion is kept. Further, every bill, poster, or other advertisement must contain a correct copy of the stallion's State license. This provision has been misinterpreted by some stallion owners and newspaper men who, instead of incorporating a complete and correct copy of the State license in their advertisements, have included only "examined and passed by the Registry Board," or similar statements. This is incorrect. The Kansas stallion law bars no horse from public service, but requires that he stand for what he really is, hence the absolute necessity of including a correct copy of the State license, word for word, in every advertisement.

In case the stallion owner has not complied with the provisions in regard to posting his license and advertising his stallion, the mare owner should demand that the stallion owner produce his State license and satisfy himself as to the breeding and soundness of the stallion he may wish to patronize. Mare owners should notify the Registry Board of all violations of this law.

Besides the specific benefits mentioned, the horse breeding interests in general are being greatly benefited by this law. The publicity which this law gives to matters has aroused a keener interest in horse breeding. Both stallion owners and mare owners are giving more careful thought and consideration to these problems, thus a higher ideal is being created and horsemen are beginning to appreciate and demand a better class of breeding animals. There is also now a keener rivalry among stallion owners to own better stallions, and this is an influence which will play no small part in raising the general average of our Kansas horses.

The publishing of the facts regarding all stallions standing for public service has caused many an owner to dispose of an unsound or inferior stallion and invest in a good, sound, pure-bred stallion.

With such excellent results as have accrued from the operation of the law in the short time it has been in operation, the horse breeding interests of Kansas may be assured that they will receive benefits of inestimable value from its operation in the future. These results leave no room to question or doubt the necessity or value of such a law.

FRAUDULENT PEDIGREES.

The stallion law requires owners who apply for stallion licenses to send to the office of the Registry Board either the original registry certificate or a certified copy of the registry certificate of the stallions for which they seek State licenses. Some owners have thought it unnecessary to send either the original registry certificate or a certified copy of the same, and have sent only the name of the association in which their horse is recorded and his registration number, but that is not sufficient. The reason for having these registry certificates sent to this office is for the purpose of having them inspected to see that they are correct; to see that they have not been tampered with, and that they correspond with the records of the stud book in which they are recorded. Many of the registry certificates received at this office have been issued by non-recognized registry associations and are absolutely worthless. Others issued by reputable and recognized registry associations have since been changed in many ways. These, too, are worthless. The most frequent changes are made in the color of the stallion and the date of its foaling, changing them to correspond with the age and color of the horse substituted for the one for which the pedigree was originally issued.

The following cuts are illustrations of a few of the many worthless pedigrees that have come to our notice. Explanations are given as to why they are worthless.

CUT OF LEDUC.

This is a photograph of a pedigree issued by a recognized and reputable association, and at first glance it is apparently correct, but upon closer examination one sees that the date of foaling and date of registration both have been tampered with. Upon checking this registry certificate with the records of the stud book in which this pedigree is recorded, it was found that the correct date of foaling for the original and real stallion Leduc 23313 was 1898 instead of 1902, and that the registry certificate was dated 1899 instead of 1904. Upon investigation it was found that a nine-year-old grade stallion was substituted for the original pure-bred thirteen-year-old Leduc and sold to an unsuspecting honest Kansas farmer as the original pure-bred Percheron stallion Leduc 23313.

CUT OF COLBERT.

Cut No. 2 shows the date of foaling changed on the French registry certificate from 1898 to 1899. This is a crude piece of work and can readily be detected.

CUT OF MARQUIS DE WIERRE.

Cut No. 3 represents a Thompson high number. Thompson high numbers were discussed in Report No. 1, but the remark will bear repeating that Thompson high numbers are registry certificates bearing numbers above 35912 issued by Mr. Thompson after May 9, 1904, without authority. In this case an imported Boulonnais stallion — Marquis De Wierre 6159 B — was recorded as a Percheron.

CUT OF HILBERT.

Cut No. 4 is an illustration of a case in which the age of the stallion has been changed from 1907 to 1905 and an older horse substituted for the horse for which this pedigree was originally issued. When this registry certificate was presented to the Board it was rejected and a grade license issued for the horse it was supposed to represent. The owner of the stallion had no idea that there was anything wrong with the pedigree of his stallion until it was returned to him by the Registry Board accompanied by a grade license. He was very indignant and had a right to be after finding that the pedigree of this high-priced horse was absolutely worthless. The final outcome of the matter was that the man from whom the horse was purchased "was convicted of knowingly and wilfully giving a false pedigree." The owner and patrons of this stallion would probably never have discovered that they were being deceived had it not been for the inspection of this pedigree by the Registry Board.

Another interesting feature about this registry certificate is that the association by which it was issued is not recognized by State registry boards because it is an association which accepts for registration mares and produce of mares having three top crosses.

CUT OF BLACK DICK.

Cut No. 5 is an interesting illustration. A study of this case shows very plainly the worthlessness of the registry certificate issued by this association. The writer is personally familiar with the horses appearing in this pedigree and knows the breeding of each. In the first place the stallion Black Dick is sired by the grade stallion Prince de Ige II and out of the grade mare Queen. This so-called certificate of registration "certifies that Black Dick has been duly recorded as standard under rules 1, 2, 3, 9, 11."

Rule 1 reads: "Every animal recorded in the American draft horse register or stud book is subjected to a rigid score card examination. If the horse fails to score eighty points on a standard adopted by the American Horse Registry Association, it is rejected." Who may do this scoring? The owner seeking to have his horse recorded in this association may do his own scoring. Can anyone imagine an owner scoring his horse below eighty points under such conditions?

Rules 2, 3, 9 refer to weight, height, etc. Not a word is mentioned in regard to breeding.

Rule 11: "Any mare that has produced a colt which is up to standard and quality for an American Standard Draft horse." As this entry requirement is for mares only, we can hardly see how it could be applied as an entry requirement for the stallion Black Dick.

These requirements show the absolute worthlessness of these registry certificates. It will be noticed that purity of breeding is not made the basis of a single registration requirement under which the stallion Black Dick was recorded. In fact, no reference whatever is made to purity of breeding, for this association does not base its requirements upon purity of breeding. Practically all of the stallions recorded in this association that have come to the notice of the Kansas Live Stock Registry Board are simply scrubs and grades.

Another interesting case is one in which this same company, American Draft Horse Registry Association, issued a so-called registry certificate for a grade horse. This horse was sired by a Percheron, was bay in color, and carried quite a bit of hair on his legs. He was sold to an honest, unsuspecting Kansas farmer as a pure-bred Shire for $1800. The farmer had no idea he had purchased a grade Percheron until he applied for a State license. Nearly a hundred grade stallions recorded in this association, the American Draft Horse Association, have been sold to Kansas men as pure-bred horses. These men, not being familiar with the methods of the various registry associations, have supposed they were getting pure-bred stallions and have paid long prices for these grade stallions whose pedigrees are absolutely worthless.

CUT OF URIEL.

Cut No. 5 is a reproduction of what was claimed to be the French pedigree of an imported French Coach stallion. This pedigree was accepted as genuine by one of the recognized French Coach registry associations, and an American registry certificate was issued, but the Kansas Registry Board, noting the apparent irregularities in the French certificate, was not satisfied and sent a photograph of the same to the French authorities, who, after careful inspection, rendered the following opinion:

Paris, France.

Sir:

I have the honor to return to you herewith the photograph of the certificate of pedigree of the horse "Uriel" which you sent me July last. This document was submitted to the examination of expert service and here is the report that was made on the subject:

1. The form is an old one which was no longer in use at the stallion registry office of Saint Lo in 1897.
2. The signature of the chief of the station and also that of the director seem to be imitations.
3. The certificate of birth is dated September 5, 1899, whereas regularly it should have been recorded in 1898.
4. The stub of the official certificate of service, Number 63, of the stallion Norodum was compared with the photograph that you sent and does not correspond to it at all.
5. The receipt stamp affixed to the card of service which should be cancelled by the head of the station bears a different name as well as the date of 1898 instead of 1897.

Under these conditions I do not hesitate to declare that the original of this document (photograph) is a forgery.

(Signed) A. BRUNDAY,

Chief of the Technical Service,

For the Minister of Agriculture.

Here is a case where even a reputable registry association was deceived and accepted as genuine a fraudulent foreign certificate. If a reputable registry association can be deceived, how can the average farmer or horseman be expected to detect these fraudulent pedigrees?

The foregoing illustrations show why it is necessary to send to this office the registry certificate or a certified copy of the same when applying for a stallion license.

The Registry Board has received applications for licenses for two hundred and twenty-five stallions having fraudulent or fake pedigrees. This gives some idea of the immensity of the graft that has been perpetrated upon the Kansas farmers and horsemen in the past. Since the enactment of the Kansas stallion law which created the Live Stock Registry Board, whose duty it is to inspect and pass upon the merits of the pedigrees of stallions standing for public service, the prospective stallion purchaser has a means of protecting himself against this form of graft, and the mare owner—the patron—is no longer deceived by large, profusely decorated but worthless pedigrees. He now has a means of knowing exactly the breeding of every stallion standing for public service in his community.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN FRENCH DRAFT AND PERCHERON HORSES.

A great many inquiries have been received at this office in regard to the difference between a Percheron and a French Draft horse. This is a question of great importance to draft horse breeders, as so many people have evidently thought that the terms French Draft and Percheron were synonymous.

In France are found several separate and distinct breeds of heavy horses, the most important of which are:

1. Percheron.—This is a separate and distinct breed which has been bred-pure for many generations in the district of La Perche. It is so well known that further description is unnecessary.

2. Boulonnais.—A breed found in the district of Boulogne near the Belgian border. The individuals of this breed are very large and show a strong resemblance to the Belgian, except that they are coarser and very frequently have short, steep croups.

3. Nivernais. —The draft breed of the district of Niverne, smaller than either the Percheron or Boulonnais and usually black in color. It has been a popular horse in France for light, rapid draft purposes.

4 Breton, —A breed similar to the Percheron except that it is lacking in quality. This breed is most numerous in western France.

Besides these there are a few other draft breeds in France of minor importance, notably the Ardenais and the Picardy.

Previous to 1888 the only breeds of draft horses in France for which separate stud books were published were Percheron, Boulonnais and Nivernais. About 1888 the Agricultural Society of France, a private, not a government institution, published what was known as "The Stud Book of the French Draft Horse." This stud book was a reproduction of the stud books of the Percheron, Boulonnais and Nivernais breeds. It provided for the registration of all the other draft breeds of France and also cross-breeds of any of these draft breeds. Therefore, the "French Draft Stud Book" of France in its beginning accepted for registration any and all of the breeds of French draft horses and also the crosses of any of these breeds. This society has since followed practically the same policy.

In this country we have a stud book known as "The National Registry of French Draft Horses," published by the National French Draft Horse Association. It accepts for registration horses registered in the French Draft Stud Book of France; horses whose sire and dam are recorded in the National Register of French Draft Horses, and mares having four top crosses. Previous to June 21, 1910, stallions having five top crosses were accepted. So a French draft stallion may be: first, any one of the various breeds of French draft horses (including the Percheron); second, a cross of any two of these breeds; third, a five top cross, which is in reality only a high grade.

On the other hand, only those stallions are recognized as a pure-bred Percheron by Percheron registry associations or state registry boards which have both sire and dam recorded as pure-bred Percherons in a recognized and reputable registry association. In other words, a Percheron is one whose ancestors for many generations have been pure-bred Percherons. There has been no crossing or mixing of breeds.

A great many French Draft stallions have been sold to Kansas horsemen as pure-bred Percherons, when, as a matter of fact, the great majority of them were only five top cross stallions. This does not mean that there are no good horses registered as French Draft stallions, for some of them are very excellent individuals, but it does mean that the horses in this stud book vary in type and that they do not conform as closely to a fixed type as the Percheron breed. Taken in the aggregate they will not, according to our recognized and accepted principles of breeding, prove to be as prepotent as the Percheron.

In purchasing a Percheron stallion, one should be sure he gets a Percheron, and in purchasing a French Draft, one should inspect the pedigree carefully and satisfy himself whether or not he is getting only a top cross stallion. Owners of French Draft stallions should remember that the law requires that such stallions must be advertised as French Draft and not as Percherons.

THE TRUE STATUS OF THE NON-STANDARD STALLION.

Several "Non-Standard" stallions have been purchased by Kansas men who intended to stand them for public service. These owners were very much disappointed when they received only grade licenses for these stallions. A great many people seem to have the idea that the only difference between a Standard stallion and a Non-Standard stallion is simply that the Non-Standard stallion does not possess a certain required speed mark. For the benefit of such, a few words of explanation of the Non-Standard horse and the Non-Standard Department of the American Trotting Register is given at this time.

During the formative period of the American Trotter, as a breed, there were many horses which because of their historic interest and their approved merit, in a speed sense, required that a place be provided for keeping a record of them, hence the establishment of the Non Standard Department of the American Trotting Register which makes its first appearance in Vol. IV.

The men who were fostering, encouraging and protecting the interests of the American Trotter were anxious that everyone interested in these matters should know exactly the purpose and intent of the Non-Standard Department of the Trotting Register. The status of the Non-Standard horse is given in Vol. V as follows: "When the standard was adopted the necessity for a non-standard department was generally conceded. The only condition necessary for admission has been that the animal should be 'well related to the standard trotting blood,' which in its application has been indefinite and not wholly satisfactory. In the next volume definite and fixed conditions will be observed from the start, and these conditions will be a constant reminder of the advantage of getting within the standard in all breeding operations."

These men further emphasized the position of the Non-Standard horse as a breeding animal in Vol. VI as follows: "A notable feature of the present volume is the falling off in the animals in the Non-Standard Department. This, I take it, is an unmistakable indication that popular intelligence is now demanding standard-bred animals for breeding purposes. It is only a question of a little time when there will be no Non-Standard Department."

The Non-Standard Department has not been discontinued, still the above quotations show that the American Trotting Register Association is anxious to have the true standing of the Non-Standard horse definitely understood. To bring this matter down to date, the following letter from the American Trotting Register Association explains the situation quite clearly:

Chicago, Ill., July 29, 1911.

To the Kansas Live Stock Registry Board,
 Manhattan, Kan.

Gentlemen:

Replying to your letter of inquiry regarding the Non-Standard horse, will say that our understanding of the various stallion laws is that the Non-Standard horse comes under the head of grade, so that your course in issuing grade licenses for Non-Standard stallions is all right. Yours respectfully,

AMERICAN TROTTING REGISTER ASSOCIATION.

There are only two rules under which a trotting stallion can be recorded as Standard and recognized as a "pure-bred" in the general sense of the term. "(1) The progeny of a registered Standard trotting horse and a registered Standard trotting mare. (2) A stallion sired by a registered Standard trotting horse, provided his dam and grandam were sired by a registered Standard trotting horse, and he himself has a trotting record of 2:30 and is the sire of three trotters with records of 2:30 from different mares."

The requirements for a pacing stallion are practically the same except that in each case a mark of 2:25 is required instead of 2:30.

It is very plain that no stallion can be recorded on performance alone. In the case of stallions being recorded under Rule 2, besides being a standard performer, he must be well bred and must also show that he is able to reproduce his qualities.

The question of difference between a Standard and a Non-Standard stallion is not a question of performance but it is a question of breeding. So in either purchasing or breeding to a stallion registered as Non-Standard one should bear in mind the fact that the Non-Standard horse is only a grade.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE YOUNG DRAFTER.

J.C. Robison, Towanda, Kan.

The first essential in the development of a good draft colt is the sire and dam, which should be of good breeding and free from any hereditary blemishes that might be transmitted to their offspring; they should be good specimens of their breed and no colt should be kept from them for breeding purposes that does not combine the good qualities of both the sire and dam, even though he be ever so perfect otherwise.

The colt should run with the dam for at least five months, six is better. It should have grain daily, beginning as soon as it will eat. If the dam is worked, the foal never should be allowed to follow in the field or on the road. The colt should be broken to the halter when as young as possible, as the work is then easily done and never will be forgotten by the colt.

During the time the colt is sucking the dam should be fed a liberal supply of milk-producing food, such as bran and oats, together with a small amount of corn-chop; plenty of alfalfa, clover or timothy hay, with access to good pasture. I believe the colt will gain faster if the mare is worked and fed liberally and the colt kept in the stable with grain in its feed box than if allowed to run in the pasture with the dam and she not worked. Both the colt and dam should have a good supply of cool water and the dam should never be let to the colt when she is very warm.

When the colt is old enough to wean, if the best results are obtained, plenty of good feed should be given it at this time, and he would hardly know "when and how it all happened." Colts should, by all means, have plenty of good shelter, and if wintered in large numbers, must not be too crowded, as the younger ones will not get their share of the feed and of course will always be the runts of the bunch.

After the colts are past twelve or fifteen months of age, the stallion colts should be separated from the bunch and put on separate pasture. They will do much better if separated early and can be run together on pasture until two years old and indeed until they are nearly three, and will not fight nearly as much as a bunch of mares. Good draft colts should weigh at twelve months old nearly one thousand pounds; at twenty-four months they should tip the beam at close to fourteen or sixteen hundred pounds, and at three years old should be almost mature, and, if well grown, weigh around seventeen hundred or two thousand pounds. The stallion colts usually develop a little heavier than the mares. The mares should begin light work after they reach the age of about two years and should be bred at about two and one half years of age, if they are to be kept for brood mares. My experience is that a mare that produces a colt the year she is three is always the surest and best brood mare we have.

The stallion colts at thirty months old will do light service in the stud, possibly breeding ten or twelve mares, used at the rate of two or three mares per week.

The small farmer is the one to raise the good colt, the large breeder being handicapped by having to keep too many together and thus getting more of them blemished. The small farmer will have work for all his mares and in that way is much surer of getting them all in foal. Many a small farmer who has four to six good, registered mares, and looks after them carefully, gets more returns from them than from his entire farm.

WORKING THE DRAFT STALLION.

J. G. Arbuthnot, Cuba, Kan.

There is no good reason why a draft stallion should not work, and there are a good many reasons why he should work. Any man who is a horseman in the true sense of the word can work one or even two stallions. I have two Percheron stallions that have worked together this summer and neither one was broken to harness until last spring. We hitched them together when one had been worked three times and the other about five or six times. After they had been worked together a few times one man handled them alone. We kept a jockey stick on them when hitched and taught them that when they had the harness and blind bridles on there was no fooling. Many a time we unhitched from the manure spreader and took them into the barn, unharnessed them, and changed their bridles to try mares and then put them right back into the harness.

My stallion team was the talk of the country this summer. Driving a pair of stallions in a good set of harness through town is the best advertising they can get. Any horseman admires a stallion that is well broken to harness and everybody notices the driver who has sense enough to drive two stallions together.

Work is the only proof of the strength and staying qualities of a work horse. I have known draft stallions to do a good business when they were so unsound that if castrated and tried out, a horse buyer would not make a bid on them. As stallions they could fool a good many people.

The American Trotter has won the admiration of the world on account of his speed and endurance as exhibited in many hard-fought battles on the track. Such endurance and speed would not have been possible except for the stamina begotten by ancestors who stood on the merits of their records and the records of their ancestors. In fact, the achievements of the American trotter and pacer are simply "the survival of the fittest," while the achievements of the American drafter are too often the survival of the fittest. An animal kept in idleness cannot be expected to possess any great amount of strength and endurance, and one of the strongest laws of breeding is "like begets like." A horse cannot transmit good qualities which he does not himself possess. In fact, not all horses can beget with any certainty the good qualities which they do possess.

If the only use of the draft horse was the butcher's block, the same as the fat steer and the fat hog, then no work would be necessary to produce the greatest amount of soft, fat flesh, but when we consider the heavy loads that are to be drawn by the offspring of our draft stallions we should choose a stallion that has size combined with action, strength, and endurance. There is no way to tell whether a horse possesses these qualities except by putting him to the actual test.

Live-stock shows are full of other demonstration tests, such as butcher tests, or block tests for the beef breeds, milk tests for dairy breeds, etc.; race horses get their tests on the track, but who ever heard of a fair or stock show offering premiums for tests of draft stallions at actual work. They offer premiums for mares and geldings hitched in pairs, fours and sixes, shown to an empty wagon, but the ton stallion competes for his ribbons at the end of a lead strap.

When the breeders of draft horses in America get to meeting at the big fairs and competing for prizes offered for the pair of registered draft stallions that can move the heaviest load or that can haul a given number of tons a mile in the shortest time, then the importer will have a hard time selling his bobtailed horses for more money than the American breeder gets. But as long as the American drafter is bred and raised in idleness there will be a good business in bringing breeding stock from foreign countries where both stallions and mares are worked in harness.

In the fall of 1902 I bought a jack in Missouri and the following year I drove him to a buggy, hitched with a stallion, about thirty-five miles every week. He finished the season far better than he began it, and out of the first crop of mules I showed a pair of three-year-olds at the American Royal and won second on three-year-old pair. This jack never wore harness after that year and never reproduced a like crop of mules.

I never saw a collar and hames that would fit a draft stallion properly, but they work nicely in a good, heavy breast collar. A pitchfork handle makes a good jockey stick, and in working one stallion, fasten the jockey stick to the top of the other horse's hame. I learned this by experience. I hitched a stallion with a mule and fastened the stick to the breast strap ring on the mule. The stallion reared up on the mule and the stick would not let him get back. If he tries it with a good long stick fastened to the top of the hame, when he rears the stick pushes him out so far from the other horse that he does not try it very often.

HEAVY HORSES AND FARM WORK.

R. G. McKinnie, Glen Elder, Kan.

There are a great many who farm more acres and a great many who farm fewer than I do, but with the exception of the large ranches where extensive breeding operations are being carried on as well as large farming operations, the kind and the variety of work performed on my 320-acre farm are about the same as those on the average stock and grain farm. The routine of work that the horses on this farm have gone through in a year includes about everything that could be found on a Kansas stock and grain farm.

Several years ago I began farming operations for myself with a mixed lot of work animals, which included mules, drivers, and some rather light draft and a few heavier horses, these latter being mostly geldings weighing from 1600 to 1750 pounds.

As the farm work had to be done by myself and hired help, it soon became evident that everything on the driving order failed to fill the bill. In the first place, this kind of horse was generally too spirited to be handled, without being ruined, by any but the most trustworthy men. In the second place, too many horses of this kind were required to pull the present-day machinery used. One could not care for so many horses and get ready in time to do a day's work in the field. In the third place, either the hired help or I had this kind of horse on the road too much after a day's work, for the good of the horse, the help, or myself.

I soon found that it was no easy matter to replace, with desirable young horses, the ones sold. I therefore concluded to raise my own work stock, especially as it seemed the time had again arrived when any surplus, if of the right kind, would find a welcome market.

It was the heavy stuff, other things being equal, that the market demanded, so the question arose, could the farm work be done as profitably with the heavy mares as with lighter draft mares, or would the lighter mares earn more than enough to pay the difference in market value between their colts and the colts from the heavy mares? I believed that all the necessary farm work could be done as well with heavy mares each of which could raise a colt that would bring a higher price. Several years' experience has shown that my reasoning was sound. It would be a serious mistake to go back from heavy mares to lighter ones for my own work.

My mares, with one or two exceptions, range from two-year-olds, weighing from 1450 pounds to 1600 pounds, to aged mares, weighing from 1800 pounds to nearly a ton. While raising colts, the mares have done all the farm work.

There are a good many reasons why heavy draft mares are to be preferred to lighter ones for general farm work, aside from the fact that they produce foals that grow into larger horses and that bring more money in the horse market. Owing to their weight, three heavy horses will do the work of four lighter horses and do it more easily. The lister can be run with three heavy horses, while four lighter ones would be necessary for the same work; three heavy horses will take the place of four lighter ones on a binder; one heavy horse can be used instead of two lighter ones on the stacker; and two heavy horses will pull a six-foot mower more easily than a lighter team will handle a five-foot cut. A pair of good, heavy Percheron mares will swing along easily with the biggest manure spreader if the ground is not so soft that the wheels of the spreader slip. In the feed lot nothing has been found so satisfactory as a pair of these big, docile, easy-moving, almost human creatures. All this means economy in time, labor, and equipment.

The hired man can get a three-horse team ready for work more quickly, and handle it more easily in the field, than he can a four-horse team. The saving of half a set of harness equipment is also something nowadays.

The heavy mare is by her very nature docile and teachable, steady and true, and will not subject her worker to the irritation so frequently the case with the light, high-strung mare not of the strictly draft breed. The heavy animal will, therefore, not be abused by any man that has in him a spark of love for a horse.

One of the principal objections urged against this class of work mares is that they are too slow, cannot be trotted out on the road, or will not turn corners quickly enough. We all know the fable of the hare and the tortoise, and which of them won. We do too much rabbit farming in this State. You will be surprised, however, after working heavy mares awhile, how much work they can turn out and how quickly they can move around if bred for action as well as for size, and if properly broken and handled. The big horse, if properly bred and properly broken, will surprise you with his long business stride. He does not lift his big feet so often as a shorter, smaller horse, but he does not need to, for, as a rule, one of his steps equals about one and a half steps of some of the smaller variety, and, if necessary, he can be put into a pretty comfortable trot without any damage being done.

Another objection sometimes raised against the heavy brood mare is that she will not stand the heat so well as a lighter one. My experience is that this is largely a matter of care and proper feeding. Of course, I would not be so foolish as to argue that any mare can carry a colt, suckle a foal, and do as much work as a mule or gelding. The worth of the colt will, however, more than recompense the owner for any difference between the two classes so far as the value of the work performed is concerned. Moreover, if during the summer's work a little extra care is taken, it is surprising what an amount of heat a heavy, sound mare can stand.

Take to the field a barrel of water for the horses as well as a jug of water for yourself. If, after turning their heads to the wind, you give them a drink every time you take one yourself or every time you oil the machine, you will be surprised what an effect it will have upon the team. In addition to being kept fresher in the field, the horses will not gorge themselves at the tank when they come in, and will be in much better shape internally to handle their feed. This is an old practice and is, of course, not original with me. Plenty of good water never hurt a horse if the water was given frequently instead of waiting until the animal became half exhausted from thirst. The time consumed in putting the water upon the wagon in the morning and in giving it to the team in the field will not exceed half an hour a day. This will more than be made up in the extra amount of work the team will perform and the lessened number of calls for the veterinarian to treat colic and kindred forms of indigestion.

Being of a quiet disposition, heavy brood mares are easily put into shape for market whenever one is ready to cash them in. They have an immense reserve power that is seldom entirely called into use in doing the ordinary farm work, such as I have described, and so their work is really little more than good exercise. This makes them susceptible to feed, and, when the cooler fall weather comes, they can, on a surprisingly small amount of grain, given regularly and in proper proportion, be readily fattened for sale.

Many farmers who refuse to attempt colt raising give as one of their reasons the fact that they are dependent on hired help for the greater part of their work. They say that the loss from the abuse of their mares would be greater than their revenues from colts. On exceptionally large farms and ranches where the sole object is to do all the work possible and push everything and everybody to the limit, this argument may be well founded. But it is not true at all on the diversified farms of from 80 to 640 acres,

My own experience has been that the better the horses and their equipment, the better help have I been able to secure. In fact, it is no unusual thing for a man who has worked for me to stop and inquire particularly about every horse and colt on the place, at intervals even to come back for the express purpose of seeing the mares and colts. Several times when I have sold teams, former help or the help then working for me would ask how I could part with their favorite team or would express the wish that they could have been the purchasers.

Put the matter right up to the hired man. Give him a big, good-looking, well-matched team, equipped with the right kind of harness, well fitted; let him understand that he is assuming a responsibility, that, while you expect him to do a day's work, you will appreciate his care of the team. If he is made of the stuff that good help is made of, your only worry need be that he will, if such a thing be possible, take too good care of the horses.

Good teams and good equipments have an inestimable value for a farmer and for the community in which he lives. If business corporations that look at everything from the dollar standpoint can afford to spend big money for good teams, not only for the work the teams can do, but for the advertising value as well, why can't we who raise them afford to keep at least some of the best? And it is really surprising how much interest your friends not directly concerned about stock or farming will take in your horses if you try to have good ones. They will be elated at your success and sympathize with you when you have failures. I have had more heartfelt regrets expressed at the loss of a colt from a well-known brood mare than at the loss of a whole crop of feed or grain.

It would not be advisable, however, for anyone who has not had considerable experience to plunge at once into the business of using heavy mares for his farm work and of raising colts from them. Start with one pair of heavy mares, preferably pure-breds; work them a year and raise their colts. One will know by that time how he likes them. If they are satisfactory, he can purchase more of the same kind later. If he buy pure-breds, it will pay him well to see not only that he gets a pedigree with every horse, but also that he gets a horse with every pedigree. A pile of papers with poor horses is a sorry combination. Having purchased a good pair of mares, one should look well to the care of them and their colts.

We farmers need to study the art of horse raising and horse handling more thoroughly, to give more attention to the care and comfort of the horse, to watch their feeding, and above all to keep their quarters clean and sanitary. Helpful hints from farm and stock journals, veterinary bulletins, agricultural bulletins, some of the best of which come from our own College, some good books, and the experience of neighbors — all these will be found useful. The acquaintance of the local veterinarian should also be cultivated. He is usually a willing adviser.

THE FUTURE OF THE LIGHT HARNESS HORSE.

M. A. Smith, Cawker City, Kan.

When we stop to think that we have electricity to furnish motive power for our street cars, steam to carry our mails, gasoline to do our livery work and draft horses and mules to do the common drudgery, the future of the "King of the Equine Race," the light harness horse, certainly looks rosy.

True it is, that in times past he has been called upon to perform all of the above services, besides many others, and that he did his part well is a matter of history, but, henceforth, he will be seen only in the easier walks of life performing the more graceful duties.

But, you say, "His occupation is gone, he is no longer needed, therefore he becomes worthless and his production will cease because it is no longer profitable." The fact is, he has simply been raised to a higher plane by the inventions of recent years, and individuals of his breed with extreme speed or show yard conformation and qualities were never in greater demand or commanded a higher price.

The United States imports breeding stock of all kinds — draft horses, running horses, cattle, sheep and hogs — except one, the standard-bred trotter, and he is exported because he is known the world over as the best light harness horse in existence. He goes to France and outsells the automobile in its home country, and to the draft horse breeding sections of Europe, bringing the price of a shipload or more of these faithful slaves.

The multimillionaire class of our own country is coming back to the light harness horse for pleasure as fast as they can supply themselves with animals of the required quality, for the reason that a horse-drawn turnout has a certain individuality and "class" that is hard to duplicate and cannot be approached, as regards attractiveness, by a mere machine.

It seems that seasons like the present one, when drouth and general business depression prevail, are conducive to the production of prophets, and whatever else they do, you may depend upon it, they will take a slap at the trotter. This is well brought out in the following from the pen of Caton Thomas:

"THE END OF THE TROTTER."

"Over fifty years ago when agricultural societies began to offer prizes for trotting bred show horses an alarmist predicted the end of the trotter.

When the bicycle appeared, a speed crank predicted the end of the trotter.

When hard times of the early nineties spread devastation abroad, the weak hearted predicted the end of the trotter.

When the angel Gabriel blows his horn which will devastate our two-by-four sphere, some space-filler will hold onto his pencil long enough to predict the end of the trotter, but dollars to doughnuts winged descendants of Hambletonian 10 will carry some of us to paradise."

We are too close to the trotter to rightly appreciate him. The old saying that "familiarity breeds contempt" would be applicable here, but if we had to obtain him from across the water, the sentiment would be greatly changed. Moreover, this condition may arise sometime in the future, for the Europeans, who are buying only the best of our breeding stock, paying therefor more than American breeders are willing to give, with their own superior skill as breeders of purebred stock, may excel us in breeding our native horse.

In the future, as in the past, the light harness horse probably will have his "ups" and his "downs." Let us hope he is on top most of the time; for, whatever may be his fate, the fact remains that he is very near to the hearts of all true Americans.

NAVEL ILL.

Dr. F. S. Schoenleber.

Navel ill is an infectious disease, and each infectious disease is caused by a specific definite organism. The laws of reproduction, growth and development of all living things are fixed by Nature. These laws are practically the same in both plants and animals. A pumpkin seed never develops into a watermelon. A kernel of corn will produce corn only. A drove of hogs turned into a pasture and supplied with plenty of shelter and good feed and drink will never develop into a herd of cattle. The germ of distemper cannot develop into the germ of glanders or into lockjaw, nor can the bacillus of tuberculosis cause typhoid. Each living thing produces its own kind only.

A grain of wheat dropped into a suitable soil where there is sufficient plant food, moisture, and warmth will in a certain number of days begin to swell, to grow and will finally mature. The result is the production of an increased number of grains similar to the one originally planted. This is performing its full mission for which it was intended by Nature. Some of these new grains may be larger or stronger, others may be smaller and weaker than the parent grain, depending much upon the ancestors and the health and strength of the grain planted; the amount and the kind of food available and the conditions of moisture and temperature during its period of growth and development. The trained farmer or stock raiser has only to look at the growing plants or animals to tell from what kind of seed they originated.

It is easy to realize these conditions and laws when they are applied to animals and plants which can be seen with the naked eye, but it is much harder to realize when applied to bacterial life. In these cases we do not see the cause, but see only the effect, but each germ has a particular way in which it shows its presence. The organism of diphtheria, for example, shows its presence by certain symptoms and lesions in its development, and it always happens that when certain conditions are found a microscopic examination always reveals the cause—the specific organism. Each particular germ carries with its development a certain set of symptoms, and whenever those symptoms present themselves under certain conditions the conclusion is obvious—they are always caused by a certain germ. This is how we recognize the causes of certain diseased conditions of animals or plants.

Practically all infectious diseases are caused by organisms of some kind, and all diseases caused by such organisms are preventable. In order that an infectious disease may spread to other animals, it is necessary for the organism which causes the disease to gain entrance into the body of the other animal before that animal will contract that particular disease. The organism and the animal must be brought together—keep them apart and the organism will eventually die—keep them apart and an infectious disease cannot spread. This is why State and Federal laws are enacted establishing quarantine to protect the healthy animals and to control infectious diseases.

Cause of the Disease. — In the disease we commonly call navel ill, the organisms usually enter the animal through the navel. It is a noticeable fact that where mares are kept in the open pasture or in new enclosures the disease is rarely found — the germ and the colt do not get together. On the other hand, the trouble is most prevalent in old breeding establishments where the germs live from year to year in the breeding pens and stalls; especially do they thrive in damp places. These facts should of themselves suggest the rational methods of handling this particular trouble.

Some of the Symptoms. — The foal is noticed to be dull and probably lifeless or indifferent to nourishment and probably appears to have some fever. The temperature will be found to be above normal, while the hair is rough and harsh looking. Chills are sometimes noticed.

Many cases show a lameness in one or more limbs which may shift from one limb to another, reminding one of a case of rheumatism. One of the most common symptoms can be best described by the expression the veterinarian usually hears in these cases, "the mare must have stepped on it." Most often the hock of one leg is affected, but any other joint may be involved. As the disease progresses swelling and heat can be noticed in the affected joint, and this swelling gives it a "boggy," soft feel.

Usually these swollen joints burst and discharge a yellowish, thick, greasy fluid, which dries and crusts on the hair, while the wound refuses to heal. The young animal continues to get weaker and finally is unable to get on his feet. He may last several months in this condition or he may die quickly.

Many cases show only slight swelling about the navel with some yellowish pus accumulation. Other cases resemble stranglers or distemper. The bowels may show constipation and very light, yellow pasty discharges in some cases, in others diarrhea is noticed at the beginning.

Post Mortem Appearances. — Careful examination of the carcass after death reveals the navel swollen and jelly-like in consistency, while the blood vessels leading from it are corded and inflamed, often containing clotted and partially decomposed blood and sometimes pus. Intestines contain clumps of hard, pasty faeces and the peritoneum or inner lining of the abdomen is often somewhat inflamed. There may be abscesses in different parts of the body, particularly in joints.

Sometimes the urachus is open and urine discharges from the navel in a small stream or by drops, which keeps the under part of the belly moist. This, in itself, is not likely to cause the death of the foal, as it often subsides if left alone. It may be closed by blisters or it may be necessary to close it with sutures. This condition should not be neglected, as navel infection might occur. Keep an antiseptic on the parts, and if it does not close in a few days, get a veterinarian to see what is necessary to do to close it.

Treatment.--For the average stock owner, prevention is worth far more than attempts at cure because of the ease of preventing its occurrence. Since it is known to be due to infection and that the infection probably enters at the navel, efforts to prevent the trouble should be directed here. Keep the germs and the colt apart.

Means of Control and Treatment.--Premises once infected should be considered dangerous until thoroughly disinfected, which may be done as follows: A few days before the mare is ready to foal, remove her from the usual stall to a foaling place from which all litter has been removed and burned, and the ground and walls thoroughly sprayed with a 5 per cent solution of coal tar dip in water, or a one to five hundred solution of bichloride of mercury and water, thickly applied with a spray pump. Let this dry a few hours and cover the floor well with a layer of clean, bright straw. Wash the mare's tail and surrounding parts with the same antiseptic solution as used on the floor and walls diluted about one half the above strength. Leave the mare alone with good, moderately laxative food and clean water in abundance and wait with patience, not too much inquisitiveness. As soon after foaling as possible, take a cord which has been soaked in tincture of iodine and tie around the navel cord, about an inch from the body, and paint thoroughly over this cord with tincture of iodine. If the cord is visibly soiled, it would be best to wash it off with a good antiseptic before applying the iodine and to apply the iodine several times at intervals of twelve hours.

Treatment after infection has progressed till joints are swollen is rarely satisfactory. Some cases respond well to careful iodine application to the navel and affected joints, with potassium iodide and liver stimulants internally, but the best satisfaction is now obtained by using the Bacterin treatment, vaccinating the colt against this trouble with the product of these germs themselves produced in the laboratory. This treatment, however, is somewhat complicated, and is as yet only satisfactory in the hands of experienced veterinarians. Prevention is so easy and so certain that the stock raiser should devote his energy toward preventing the trouble — keep the germs and the colt apart.

HORSE BREEDING IN WESTERN KANSAS.

H. T. Hineman, Dighton, Kan.

The question is often asked, "Why has western Kansas a better average class of horses than farther east?" One reason is that it is a natural horse country and through the season of low prices the western man kept his best mares and bred them to the best sires obtainable, and as a rule to a registered horse of the same breed.

As the western Kansas breeder bought horses to head his own stud, he was more exacting than the man who bought with only a service fee in view. The best fillies are saved, the inferior either sold or bred to jacks; the geldings are all sold at marketable age, which is from four to six years old. They are sold to dealers who classify them and fit them for the various markets.

This gives us at the present time a brood mare averaging in size from 1200 to 1500 pounds. These mares bred to registered horses of the same breed produce colts that will bring from $60 to $100 each at present prices. Colts as a rule are foaled in April and May. If the farmer has young geldings or dry mares sufficient to do his farm work, the colts and dams are allowed to run in the pasture together until fall, when the colts are taken from the mothers and put on good feed or wheat pasture. They should have oats, corn, and alfalfa to get the best results. As our climate is warm and blessed with plenty of sunshine, horses live out doors most of the time, and our colts being foaled out in the pasture, we are not troubled with the dreaded navel disease that takes so many young colts farther east. Horses raised this way are practically free from unsoundnesses except barbed wire cuts. A blind horse is practically unknown.

A man in western Kansas can make no better investment than a few good brood mares, if pure-bred so much the better, and the better they are the more profitable they will prove to be. Do the farm work with the brood mares and raise all the colts possible. It is all the better to work the mare up to the very day of foaling, much better than to stop work, as she is not liable to get sufficient exercise if taken from the team.

When the colt is foaled have the mare in an open pasture unless the weather is stormy, and if it is the first colt in the spring, have the mare by herself, as all the horses want to take a good look at the first colt and may fight and kill or cripple the little fellow. After they all get accustomed to a young colt there is no danger. If the weather is stormy, put the mare in a good, roomy box stall, well bedded, and keep watch over her, as there is more danger than when foaled out in the open pasture. Keep the navel of the colt well greased with carbolated vaseline for a few days to prevent navel disease. When the colt is two weeks old, the mare may be put to light, slow work. Leave the colt in the barn in a box stall, take the mother to the colt the middle of the forenoon and the afternoon to nurse.

As soon as the colt will eat grain, put plenty of oats and bran in the feed box when you take the mare out and in a short time you will be surprised at the amount it will eat. If the mare has to be away longer than the usual feeding time, halter the youngster and tie it by the side of its mother and take it along. This way three mares will do as much work and raise three good colts as two dry mares that raise no colts, and the colts will be worth more than colts whose mothers did no work but run out on pasture. When breaking a colt to eat grain it is easy to break them to the halter, and they soon become gentle and easily handled.

Do not neglect to care for the colt the first year, for a colt makes one half its size the first twelve months of its life, and unless it has good care the first year it will not develop later as it should.

With our climate and cheap feed we need not fear if we raise the right kind and improve what we have. This horse will pay the one that grows him.

CONTAGIOUS ABORTION.

K. W. Stouder.

Many terms are used in discussing this trouble, such as "slinking," "casting," "losing," "aborting," etc., the idea being conveyed that the young colt is cast out of the womb before it is fully developed and capable of separate existence.

CAUSES. Abortion may be brought about in many ways. The principal causes probably are injuries to the mother from fighting, falling, kicks from other animals, drinking excessively of very cold water, exposure to severe or sudden changes in the weather, and the eating of spoiled, frozen or mouldy foods, especially wheat or rye, which contain ergot or smut. Improper hygienic surroundings also contribute, especially in stabling, breeding too young, inbreeding, and severe constitutional diseases. The death of the foetus itself is at times responsible.

When any of the accidental or explainable causes cannot be assigned to the case, contagious abortion is always to be suspected, for it is common in this State and easily spread from one animal to another. The failure of many mares and cows to breed may often be attributed to this trouble. The diseased animals are often able to infect those with which they associate, so it is readily seen that the immediate loss of the young animal is not the only loss sustained by a herd in which this disease may get a foothold. It frequently results in many months of sterility or possible loss of increase completely, as well as infection of new herds or animals replacing the old herd.

There can be no doubt of the fact that the disease is of germ origin, or infectious, as we more properly say. The fact that it spreads rapidly from one animal to another, and that, experimentally, it can be produced by the introduction of the discharge of an affected animal into the vagina of a pregnant animal both conclusively prove this point.

The germs of the disease are found in the vagina and uterus of affected animals and are passed out with the discharge from these organs, therefore the membranes and discharges from a case of abortion should always be buried, burned or thoroughly covered with strong and efficient disinfectant.

This is one disease where it is obvious that prevention is worth vastly more than an attempt to cure, mainly because the trouble is as a rule not suspected to be present till it has occurred, therefore treatment is directed to those animals supposed or known to be affected and the known exposed ones, applying those sanitary measures necessary to check its spread.

Considerable experimental work has been done in attempting to control the disease, and various methods have been more or less successful in herds that were affected in a mild form. This Station carried on a series of experiments by using locally, at various periods of time, capsules filled with ichthyol and other disinfectants; also, giving salol internally. None of these methods proved as satisfactory in controlling the disease as the following:

TREATMENT. Burn the fœtus and membranes, together with all litter soiled with the fluids. Clean out the barn and burn the refuse. Whitewash the walls with sprag or brush with a solution of corrosive sublimate, one ounce in eight gallons of water and lime. Repeat this process often and get all drains and floors well covered with the antiseptic fluids.

Separate aborting animals from those supposed not to be affected and keep them separate until they are entirely well. Wash off the tail and surrounding parts of all animals with a solution of creolin or phenol, two per cent in water, and irrigate the uterus with a two per cent solution of phenol in water kept thoroughly mixed. This is best performed by using a funnel and hose five or six feet long, inserting one end in the uterus, and pouring the antiseptic solution into the funnel, allowing it to run in gradually.

Many animals, even those which have persistently refused to breed, can be made profitable breeding animals again by the following method:

Boil and cool one quart of soft water. Add to it five drams of pure crystals of phenol. Keep this solution in a well-corked, sterilized bottle, shaking it vigorously each time before using any of it. Get a hypodermic syringe, similar to those used in vaccinating for blackleg, and treat the affected animals by injecting under the skin about one to one and one-half ounces of this solution, putting one to two drams at different points of the body. Repeat every seven to ten days till about six treatments are given. After about two treatments, increase the dose to all the animal will stand. To do this, give one or two extra syringes full and wait a little while, all the time watching the eyes. If the pupil dilates, enough has been given. An overdose makes some animals quite sleepy, or they stagger a little, but these symptoms are not dangerous and soon wear off. To give all the animal will stand without staggering is good practice after about the second treatment.

If faithfully followed, the above directions should rid any herd of contagious abortion in a short time and place it in a profitable condition from a breeder's standpoint.

If any of the animals show signs of aborting at any time, give two to four drams every day for a time and it will probably check the tendency. To herds suspected of possible trouble, thoroughly mix one pound of phenol with five pounds of salt, and give to each animal a tablespoonful of the mixture in a bran mash every other day for a week. This will probably prevent the threatened abortion.

Bulls which have served aborting cows can spread the disease, so the sheath should be irrigated before and after each service, the same as was directed for the irrigation of the vagina in the female. The bulls should also be given the hypodermic treatment and should be isolated and kept from associating with herds wherein the disease has not been found.

Some cows and mares have repeatedly failed to conceive after service, and this condition is often due to an acidity of the fluids of the uterus which prevents conception. This difficulty is best overcome by soaking a cake of ordinary yeast in about a quart of lukewarm water over night, keeping it at about body temperature all the time; this solution should be strained through a clean muslin cloth and injected into the vagina of an animal a few hours before service. It neutralizes the acids and overcomes the trouble in many cases.

HORSE BREEDING IN KANSAS.

J. T. Axtell, M. D., Newton, Kan.

In Kansas, as well as in every other place, the first and most important consideration is that of the ancestors of the foal. The value of a horse is largely its usefulness. Beauty of form, style and action have their market value only when combined with proper disposition, size and soundness to make them useful.

Hundreds of mares are unfit to breed at all on account of size, balky or nervous dispositions, or hereditary unsoundnesses. If such mares must be bred, let them raise mules and thus end their breeding. The very best mares are none too good, and are certainly the most profitable, for breeding purposes. The purer her breeding, the more uniform and valuable is the progeny.

Choosing the sire is, however, where most mistakes are made. Line breeding, as a rule, is safest and best, for when you cross breeds it is a lottery what you will get. The road horse and the draft horse are so different in structure that one would better stick to one or the other, as a mixture is likely to be a misfit for either place. There are exceptions, but they cannot be depended upon. You are probably limited in choosing the dam, but in your choice of a sire you have much greater range. Above all, choose a good pure-bred sire. Remember the individual himself counts for only one half—his family counts for the other half.

Horses do not breed what they are as individuals, but at least half depends upon their ancestry. If one is large and another small, the foals will vary in the same way. If one is a drafter and one a trotter, the mixture will crop out in some of the offspring.

This is why grades will not do for sires. A certain grade may be as good individually as a certain pure-bred sire, but from all experience and from all laws of heredity he will not be so regular nor so good a sire. Do not be fooled by one or two of his get; half of them may be good, but they are sure to be the exceptions. Outcroppings of his mixed ancestry are sure to appear.

The standard-bred horse cannot be said to be a fixed type. He is bred for speed alone and his ancestors are of all shapes, sizes, and colors; so his offspring is necessarily irregular in all these things. A neighbor friend of mine raised seven foals from one Standard mare and all from the same sire, but no two of the seven were near enough alike to make a matched pair. They were of all sizes, colors, and shapes; some were grey, some black, and some sorrel. They simply followed the rule of heredity and represented their mixed ancestry.

In our draft breeds this is different. Many of our breeds have followed a certain line through so many generations of ancestors that were practically alike in size, shape, and disposition that the offspring can be accurately depended upon. But this can never be done except with pure-bred ancestry on both sides.

Another neighbor owning a well-bred Percheron mare, bred her for a number of years to a registered Percheron of the same color, and the mare and the foals were almost exact duplicates of one another. It cannot be otherwise when the individuals are alike and a long line of ancestry have all been the same.

More foals are lost from infection of the cord than from all other causes together. The symptoms do not always point to the cord, and the real cause of death is often not suspected. The foal when a few days old begins to droop and lie around; the joints often swell, and in a few days death takes place. The death was from infection, but there is so little trouble apparent at the cord that it is often overlooked.

Prevention consists in having the foal come in a clean grass paddock or on clean straw in a box stall, and especially in keeping your finger nails off the cord until it is dried. In lifting the foal, the hands under the abdomen come in contact with the freshly torn cord, and finger nails are always full of poisonous germs. Dusting the cord with borax and tying it up in absorbent cotton is a simple, safe way to care for it. The cord may be wrapped in the pure absorbent cotton without being touched by the fingers at all.

The small breeder who has use for his mares has a great advantage, as it is easy for the mare to earn her way and still raise a foal. To this end the foal must early be taught to eat and be left in a safe place with plenty of food while the mare is at work. When running with larger horses, a creep may be arranged for foals to run under to a box of grain which the larger horses cannot reach. Young foals with plenty of exercise will not eat too much and should be allowed all they will eat. They can take care of a large amount of protein food and make good use of it in producing bone and muscle. My experience is in favor of oats and alfalfa meal, half and half by bulk and mixed in a box. Diluting the grain with the ground alfalfa adds to its digestibility. Fed in this way from ten days old, the foal may be weaned without any interruption in its growth.

The first year in pasture is not enough to produce the best type of horses. They should have grain as well as pasture. Raised in this way the colts will have to be separated from the fillies when about one year old, but the colts may run together until nearly two years old. At two years of age draft colts and fillies properly raised may do light work with only benefit to themselves and thus become self-supporting.
